

Christopher S. Kirchner
CEO, Chairman & Co-Founder
Slync.io

Christopher S. Kirchner is Co-Founder, CEO and Chairman of Slync.io, an award-winning, intelligent logistics operating platform. Mr. Kirchner is the visionary behind Slync.io. As a serial entrepreneur, he is always looking for opportunities to innovate and better the world around him. Mr. Kirchner was awarded the “Top Dawg” entrepreneurship award at Butler University and formed his first business while attending the University of Kentucky. While operating his first company, Mr. Kirchner spent time as an Entrepreneur in Residence at a world renown advertising agency developing a new business model in the entertainment industry. From there, Mr. Kirchner spent several years leading and building world-class marketing and sales teams across several industries. Prior to co-founding Slync.io, Mr. Kirchner was SVP of Marketing and Sales and a board member at a leading label converter that supplied to a wide array of industries and Fortune 500 companies. Mr. Kirchner is a distinguished member of the Forbes Communication Council, SAP.io Foundry, Plug and Play Japan, and Retail Industry Leaders Association’s Startup Network. Outside of the office, Mr. Kirchner loves spending time traveling with his family or can most likely be found on the golf course or in a race car.

About Slync.io

Slync.io is an intelligent logistics operating platform that delivers Logistics Orchestration™ to transform the way shippers, logistics service providers, and carriers manage global operational issues and multi-enterprise data. An API-first platform, Slync.io connects disparate systems, ingests structured and unstructured datasets, orchestrates teams and automates processes seamlessly together for multi-enterprise transparency and frictionless collaboration for your end-to-end logistics network. Slync.io’s HQ is in San Francisco and supports users on four continents.

Slync.io is Intelligent Automation for Global Logistics.

Get connected, visit www.slync.io.