D. J. Powers Company, Inc.

Press Release

D. J. Powers expands Corporate Headquarters in Savannah, GA.

Savannah, GA. June 6, 2013: D. J. Powers Company, Inc., an International Logistics provider headquartered in Savannah, GA, is proud to announce a merger with Maritime International, Inc.

With the addition of Maritime International and the recent opening of the Norfolk, VA office, D.J. Powers has solidified their foothold in the Southeast with plans for continuing growth in the US and overseas markets. "As part of D.J. Powers' continuing strategic expansion, we are excited to welcome Maritime International into D.J. Powers Company," stated CEO Rhett Willis. "Their experience in international transportation solutions will be a valuable contribution to our expanding service offerings and will add to our level of expertise in global transportation. This gives D.J. Powers and our customers another significant advantage in major global markets."

Maritime International was founded by Bruce McCray in 1988, and has enjoyed steady growth over the years. Maritime's clients ship a variety of products, including minerals, kaolin, cottonseed, cornstarch and heavy machinery, as well as various other commodities.

D. J. Powers Company is one of the first Georgia-based freight forwarders and Customs Brokerage firms, now with seven US offices, two overseas offices in Rotterdam and Shanghai, as well as a network of over 175 affiliated offices worldwide. They specialize in handling a wide variety of commodities such as chemicals, machinery, frozen foods, vehicles, consumer goods and bulk minerals. D. J. Powers provides fully computerized documentation, shipment tracking and data management for global logistics as well as experienced oversight of shippers' regulatory compliance requirements.
